1. Since about the beginning of December 1950, several small and six large wooden barracks, the latter about 60 meters long, have been under construction on the premises of the Schutzzenhaus on Tiefurter Allee in Weimar (K 51/J 57). They were planned for Volkspolizei personnel and, on 10 January 1951, were occupied by approximately 700 Bereitschaftspolizei who were committed to patrol and point duty.
2. The Holzdorf model farm, which is located 5 or 6 km southwest of Weimar, was being converted into an ultra-modern police school. *
